

NEXUS GLOBAL DYNAMIC PORTFOLIO A (EURO)

A Sub Fund of Libero International SICAV plc

FACTSHEET - June 2023

INVESTMENT PROCESS

The fund manager's approach to investment combines strong valuation disciplines within a long-term strategic framework, together with a willingness to adjust asset allocation and stock selection in response to short term market opportunities. The Fund is not constrained by one particular investment style such as growth or value, but instead the manager believes that the best returns are achieved by correctly positioning the portfolio to benefit at all stages of each economic cycle. The manager has the mandate to search out value globally and is not constrained by benchmarks and so is well-placed to judge the relative merits of a wide range of investment opportunities. Irrespective of geographic locations, close attention is paid to individual companies in addition to understanding economic conditions. High conviction ideas are supported by a combination of quantitative analysis, in-house research and company visits.

MARKET COMMENTARY

In May markets were dominated by concerns about the US debt ceiling and a mixed picture for the global economy, with an increasing divergence between the service and manufacturing sectors of the economy. Against this backdrop Nexus Dynamic was marginally down over the month, returning -0.18%.

A deal to lift the US debt ceiling has now passed through the House of Representatives and the Senate. US inflation temporarily bounced in April, with headline and core CPI both rising roughly in line with expectations. This brings the year-over-year gains to 5.0% and 5.5%, similar to last month's readings but down sharply from last summer's peaks of 8.9% and 6.6% respectively. In the UK, the April inflation report was not well received as headline CPI fell from 10.1% year-on-year to 8.7%, significantly above expectations of 8.2%. Even more concerning was the acceleration of the core CPI component from 6.2% year-on-year to 6.8%.

Despite the drama, US equities were relatively resilient in May, while UK equities were hit by lower commodity prices. Equity market leadership in the US has been narrow, with large tech companies outperforming the broader market, backed by strong earnings reports and growing investor expectations about the future potential of AI. In May, growth stocks outperformed value by nearly 7%. The hype around AI was behind the good performance of our semi stocks, with AMD, TSMC and ASML all up between 15% and 32% over the month. The new investment in Salesforce also made a positive start and was +11%.

A recession still looks probable, but the latest earnings reports suggest companies are navigating this relatively well. Signs of a moderation in inflation in the US and the likelihood that the Fed is nearing the end of its aggressive rate-hiking campaign are welcome news. However, until there is more substantial evidence that pricing pressures are easing at a fast-enough pace for central banks to hit pause, volatility is likely to remain high. In such an uncertain environment, we believe a focus on quality will continue to be of benefit.

INVESTMENT THEMES

Salesforce

Salesforce.com is a leading provider of Software as a Service (SaaS) with principal products in the Customer Relationship Management (CRM) market, part of the enterprise software market. Historically the stock has traded at 60x PE. Currently it trades on 24x 2024 EPS for 20% growth, and in May we made an investment. We see it as an Artificial intelligence (AI) winner - Salesforce is well placed to infuse a safe, trusted and well supervised version of generative AI into its product suite. It has been working with AI for many years (under the Einstein brand) and they will talk more about its latest AI product releases later this month.
